Research Report check

63

AP SEMINAR · PERFORMANCE TASK 1 · YOUR OWN CHECK OF YOUR OWN REPORT

STUDENT CODE _____ PERIOD _____ DATE _____

College Board's directions. You present your findings "in a well-researched and well-written report in which you" do the six things below. The words in the left column are College Board's own, from the student task directions.

In my report, I	Where: page or paragraph
Identify an area of investigation and explain its relationship to the overall problem or issue.
Summarize, explain, analyze and evaluate the main ideas and reasoning in the chosen sources.
Demonstrate you have evaluated the credibility of your chosen sources and selected evidence relevant to the inquiry.
Identify, compare and interpret a range of perspectives about the problem or issue.
Cite all sources that you have used, and include a list of works cited or a bibliography.
Use correct grammar and a style appropriate to an academic audience.

Length and form

☐	1,200 words or fewer. My count is _____.
☐	Counted correctly. Titles, sub-headings, and in-text citations count. Footnoted citations, the bibliography, and text in figures or tables do not.
☐	No name. I removed every reference to my name, my school, and my teacher.

My own work

☐	Entirely mine. My team shares a question. The report is my own work.
☐	Sources shown. I gave my teacher evidence of the original sources I found and read.
☐	Checkpoint done. I discussed my research and sources with my teacher.

This sheet checks that each part is present. It does not judge quality, and nobody fills it in for you.

Written Argument check

63

AP SEMINAR · PERFORMANCE TASK 2 · YOUR OWN CHECK OF YOUR OWN ARGUMENT

STUDENT CODE _____ PERIOD _____ DATE _____

College Board's directions. You compose "a coherent, convincing and well-written argument in which you" do the seven things below. The words in the left column are College Board's own, from the student task directions.

In my argument, I	Where: page or paragraph
Explain the significance or importance of your research question by situating it within a larger context.
Establish a well-organized argument that links claims and evidence and leads to a specific and plausible conclusion, resolution or solution that addresses your research question.
Integrate at least one of the stimulus materials as part of your argument.
Evaluate different perspectives by considering objections to them, and their limitations and/or implications.
Include relevant evidence from credible sources to support your claims. You should include evidence from scholarly work.
Cite all sources that you have used, including the stimulus materials, and include a list of works cited or a bibliography.
Use correct grammar and a style appropriate for an academic audience.

Length and form

☐	2,000 words or fewer. My count is _____.
☐	Counted correctly. Titles, sub-headings, and in-text citations count. Footnoted citations, the bibliography, and text in figures or tables do not.
☐	No name. I removed every reference to my name, my school, and my teacher.

Stimulus and checkpoints

☐	Two stimulus materials. My question relates to a theme that connects at least two of them.
☐	Sources shown and discussed. My teacher has evidence of the sources I read, and we discussed them.
☐	Outline presented. I presented and discussed my argument outline with my teacher.

This sheet checks that each part is present. It does not judge quality, and nobody fills it in for you.